White coffee shop in Bang Rak district under the concept of Light to impact by using white light to create the store's attention. And tell about the important part of the store to solve the problem of accessing various parts within the store to make space for creativity. Including creating a space to make people in the store feel free and friendly.

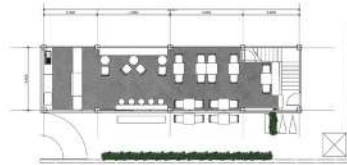

The problem encountered in the design was that the original store was quite narrow. And have limited space. There is not much light entering the building. And organizing living spaces that cause congestion. And lack of interest in attracting people to the store including the entrance to the store that makes people feel carefree.
